7. Programme aims

The programme aims to

- provide a stimulating intellectual environment informed by the collective research expertise and teaching strengths of the School of Law and the Department of Criminology;
- provide a critical understanding of the legal system and the criminal justice process;
- develop skills in legal reasoning, including problem solving, synthesis and logical analysis;
- develop a knowledge and understanding of criminological theories and concepts;
- develop a knowledge and understanding of cognate areas of law and criminology, including an awareness of principles and values, and of ethics;

- develop an appreciation of the social and policy issues underlying the law and the criminal justice process;
- develop an appreciation of the varying approaches to the study of law and criminology adopted by different types of scholars;
- develop a legally- and criminologically-informed understanding of theory and policy relating to crime, criminality and justice;
- develop transferable skills, particularly in oral and written communication, independent learning including engagement with students' own personal and professional development and integrity, and information handling, including the ability to work with a range of data;
- equip students with subject-specific and transferable skills in preparation for employment not only in the legal profession, but also in a variety of highly skilled and analytical roles in business, finance, education, public policy, public service, social services in the UK and internationally.

For those on the Year Abroad:

- provide an opportunity for Leicester students to spend their third year abroad, studying at a partner institution in Europe as part of the European Erasmus framework exchange programme or a partner institution on another continent as part of the Study Abroad exchange programme;
- develop study skills in another university following a guided programme of learning for the period spent abroad;
- provide an opportunity for exchange students from partner institutions in another country to study in the United Kingdom;
- provide and build on links between the University of Leicester and its partner institutions
- develop an awareness of legal education in another country's jurisdiction;
- develop a critical understanding of the national, international and European legal orders;
- develop an appreciation of the different approaches to the study of law adopted by different types of legal scholars both in the United Kingdom and abroad;
- French, Spanish, German and Italian exchanges: develop linguistic skills in a European language.

10. Progression points:

Students are required to complete 120 credits of taught modules delivered over two semesters each academic year (a total of 60 credits must be studied in each semester).

The rules governing progression are defined in Senate Regulation 5: Regulations governing undergraduate programmes of study. Legal foundation modules must be passed at 40%.

In cases where a student has failed to meet a requirement to progress he or she will be required to withdraw from the programme.

Application to Transfer to LLB Law with Criminology (with a Year Abroad)

Students are invited to apply at the end of their first year to transfer to the LLB Law with Criminology with a Year Abroad. Students are selected on the basis of their first year average of 50%* and above with those obtaining the highest average having priority. In addition, performance is also reviewed, taking into account such indicators as attendance and observation of academic obligations. Absence from tutorials without mitigating circumstances and non-submission of required coursework would be examples of poor performance and would result in an application being rejected.

*please note some partner institutions may require a higher first year average to be achieved.

Progression from 2nd year to year abroad

Students may progress to the year abroad with no more than 30 credits of failed modules in year 2. Good attendance and observation of academic obligations must continue to be maintained throughout year 2. Failure to do so may result in the opportunity to study abroad being withdrawn and the student being transferred back to LLB Law with Criminology or withdrawn from the programme entirely.

For the year abroad year, students are required to complete the equivalent of 60 ECTS if studying at a European partner institution or an equivalent number of credits at one of the International partner institutions as agreed between the Law School and the partner Law School.

In cases where a student has failed to meet a requirement to progress he or she will be required to withdraw from the LLB programme.

Progression from year abroad to final year

Students who have failed up to 20 credits at level 1 and have exhausted all reassessment opportunities for those credits may proceed to their final year of study providing they have passed at least 100 credits at level 2 with a mark of 40% or higher, following any reassessment opportunities as required.

Students at the end of their penultimate level of study who have failed modules which contribute towards the classification of their award, and who have exhausted their re-sit opportunities for these modules, may proceed to the final year of the programme carrying a maximum of 30 credits of failed modules. The Board of Examiners may prevent a student from progressing while carrying failed modules, if those modules are deemed as being essential pre-requisites for final level study. In such cases the student's programme of study shall be terminated.

In addition, for a student to progress to the final year of the LLB Law with Criminology with a Year Abroad programme the following will apply:

- i) Erasmus Exchange: Students are required to attempt approved credits of 60 ECTS as agreed by the Law School. In order to pass the year students must achieve a credit weighted average of 50% for the year, including any resit options as per the partner institution's rules by the August Board of Examiners. If a student fails to achieve a credit weighted average of 50%, the Board will consider whether the student should have to transfer on to LLB Law with Criminology for his/her final year taking into account overall attendance and observation of academic obligations.
- ii) Study Abroad Exchange: Students are required to attempt an academic load equivalent to 120 Leicester credits as agreed by the Law School. In order to pass the year students must achieve a credit weighted average of 50% for the year, including any resit options as per the partner institution's rules by the August Board of Examiners. If a student fails to achieve a credit weighted average of 50%, the Board will consider whether the student should have to transfer on to the LLB Law with Criminology for his/her final year taking into account overall attendance and observation of academic obligations.

The year abroad does not contribute towards the overall classification, and will therefore be assessed on a pass or fail basis.

Transfers from the degree of LLB Law with Criminology

Students who have passed first or second year assessments of the LLB Law with Criminology may, on giving notice in writing to the School not later than the beginning of the first semester of the next academic year, transfer to the second or final year of the LLB in Law, as the case may be.

Students transferring to the final year of the LLB in Law shall be credited with the 30 credits obtained in Criminology modules in the second year and these credits will be attributed to the Part 1 Final Examination.

11. Scheme of Assessment

This programme follows the standard scheme of award and classification set out in Senate Regulation 5.

12. Special Features

Students may apply to transfer to the LLB Law with Criminology (with a Year Abroad) after successful completion of the first year and subsequent successful completion of the second year.

The Year Abroad elements provides for students spending their third year at one of the Law School's partner institutions and then returning to Leicester for their final year.

A sample of partner institutions is below including information on where Criminology modules are offered in addition to Law modules:

Flinders University, Adelaide, Australia (offers both Law & Criminology modules)
La Trobe University, Melbourne, Australia (offers both Law & Criminology modules)
University of Windsor, Windsor, Canada (offers both Law & Criminology modules)
University of Copenhagen, Denmark (offers both Law & Criminology modules)

The following partners require ability in the local language:

Jean Moulin University, Lyon, France
University of Modena, Modena, Italy
Autonoma University, Madrid, Spain
Pompeu Fabra University, Barcelona, Spain (offers both Law & Criminology modules)

All the partner universities, including those that teach in English (excluding those in English teaching countries) offer introductory, intermediate and advanced language lessons for incoming exchange students. These courses are credit bearing for the purposes of the year abroad.

Please note that availability at the partner institutions varies each year and places cannot always be guaranteed at the destinations listed.

The exchange programme for European Universities is administered as part of the European Union Erasmus Framework programme.

Students wishing to apply for the LLB Law with Criminology Year Abroad variant must first apply through UCAS for the LLB Law with Criminology degree. Applications to transfer on to the LLB Law with Criminology (with a Year Abroad) degree are made towards the end of the first year. Students are selected on the basis of their first year marks.
