7. Programme aims

The programme aims:

- To enhance understanding of contemporary educational issues, both national and international, for educational professionals across all phases of education. To develop participants’ ability to reflect on theory in the area of teaching and learning and use it as the basis for understanding and improving practice.
- To develop participants’ ability to undertake small scale research.
- To develop participant’s understanding of ethical principles which underpin the design, conduct and reporting of educational research.

Students will be enabled to:

- Develop an understanding of pedagogical theories.
- Appreciate the relationship between theory and practice in education.
- Understand the influences of societal or national / regional / religious culture on teaching.
- Evaluate the use and management of learning resources, including ICT, for learners within their phase of education.
- Understand the various elements of the planning, monitoring and evaluation cycle as applied to education.
- Understand how to carry out and present small-scale research on the topic of effective education, teaching and learning.

By the end of each module, students will be able to:

- Select a topic within the area covered by the module and justify their choice in relation to their current or planned professional practice.
- Produce a coherent literature review of the topic which identifies and critically comments on appropriate theoretical, research and practice-based literature.
- Draw conclusions from literature reviews and apply findings to a consideration of teaching, learning or assessment or management of these processes, if and where appropriate.
- Have an understanding of the guiding principles of designing, conducting and disseminating ethical research in educational contexts.

In addition to the above generic Module objectives, students will be required – through the Core Introduction to Research Methods Module and the Dissertation - to design, pilot and conduct a small-scale research study in an area relevant to their current or planned professional practice and demonstrate an ability to critically evaluate research data and to apply findings to a consideration of teaching, learning, assessment or management.

10. Special features

- In 2009, the new MAIE programme was designed to combine three existing Masters programmes as pathway options while at the same time introducing a new international perspective as described above.
- The programme is designed to explore contemporary issues in education in an international/intercultural context. This moves away from the previous model in which such perspectives were mainly derived from students sharing knowledge and experiences in response to discussion focusing on largely UK-specific policy and practice, to one in which international/intercultural perspectives are embedded into programme content and assessment.
• Specialist pathways enable students to explore in depth areas of specific interest. The leadership and management pathway has been re-written to focus attention onto leadership for social justice in education. The pedagogy pathway remains the same, as does the educational innovation and reform pathway, which incorporates a range of emerging issues in education including globalization, sustainable development, citizenship education and alternative schooling. The new and updated pathway modules have all been given official approval.

• Each pathway consists of a lead module and a specialist study module. The specialist study module is focused on dissertation preparation and is designed to develop in the student skills and abilities of an autonomous educational researcher in an area of their choosing, through a combination of intensive tutorial support, student-led small group seminars and supported self-study.

11. Indicators of programme quality

• As noted above, the new programme was originally built upon the course content of the former programmes. The existing programmes shared various aspects of core Modules and hence assessment procedures and standards. Examiners’ reports for all three of these programmes have been consistently positive, and their recommendations are fully discussed and followed up appropriately, with annual reports to the Vice-Chancellor of the action taken. Student feedback (through formal module and course evaluation surveys and staff-student councils) have similarly been consistently positive for all three programmes. Again student comments are followed up and revisions to course content, structure and support have been made where appropriate.

12. Criteria for award and classification

This programme follows the standard scheme of taught postgraduate award and classification set out in Senate Regulations – see the version of Senate Regulation 6 governing taught postgraduate programmes of study relevant to year of entry.

13. Progression points

As defined in Senate Regulations - refer to the version of Senate Regulation 6 governing taught postgraduate programmes of study relevant to year of entry.

In cases where a student has failed to meet a requirement to progress he or she will be required to withdraw from the course and a recommendation will be made to the Board of Examiners for an intermediate/exit award where appropriate.

14. Rules relating to re-sits or re-submissions

As defined in Senate Regulations - refer to the version of Senate Regulation 6 governing taught postgraduate programmes of study relevant to year of entry.

15. External Examiners reports

The details of the External Examiner(s) for this programme and the most recent External Examiners’ reports for this programme can be found at exampapers@Leicester [log-in required]

16. Additional features (e.g. timetable for admissions)

Appendix 1: Programme structure (programme regulations)

The University regularly reviews its programmes and modules to ensure that they reflect the current status of the discipline and offer the best learning experience to students. On occasion, it may be necessary to alter particular aspects of a course or module.
