7. Programme aims

By the end of this programme a typical student should:

1. Have an understanding of the main theories, models, frameworks, and techniques of management to prepare them for a career in management or for further study in the area;
2. Have an understanding of management and organisations in an historical, international and comparative framework recognising the different types, sizes, structures and purposes of organizations and the stakeholders that they serve;

- 3 Be able to critically analyse and evaluate management problems and issues, covering the external economic, political, social, and technological, contexts within which organizations operate and managers work;
- 4 Be able to critically evaluate the published literature on management and organisations and to synthesise the range of issues and perspectives which inform research and practice in the field;
- 5 Have an appreciation of the importance of information to managers and organizations within a knowledge-based economy. This will include an identification of appropriate methodologies for data acquisition, assessment, analysis and dissemination.
- 6 Be able to integrate and apply systematically and creatively the knowledge, approaches, and methods they have learnt to a variety of case studies and a dissertation.
- 7 Be able to develop interpersonal, communication, and problem-solving skills, and to use these in an imaginative and self-directed way to identify problems, evaluate and analyse situations, consider alternative solutions, make choices, and implement solutions.
