

1. Programme Title(s) and UCAS code(s):

Certificate in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology
Diploma in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology
BA Ancient History and Classical Archaeology (no UCAS code)

2. Awarding body or institution:

University of Leicester

3. a) Mode of study:

Full-time or part-time

b) Type of study:

Distance Learning

4. Registration periods:

Full Time:

The normal period of registration is 3 years full-time
The maximum period of registration is 5 years full-time

Part Time:

The normal period of registration is 6 years part-time
The maximum period of registration is 8 years part-time

5. Typical entry requirements:Certificate in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology

For the Certificate (Level 1): In keeping with the principles of Distance Learning at the School of Archaeology and Ancient History, the Certificate Level modules will be open to all interested students, and will not have formal entry requirements.

Diploma in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology

For the Diploma (Level 2): Applicants will normally have a Certificate in HE in Ancient History and Archaeology (120 credits in Ancient history and Archaeology at Level 1).

Students will be eligible for transfer to year 2 of the Campus Based BA in Archaeology and Ancient History upon satisfactory completion of the Certificate in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology by Distance Learning.

BA in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology

For the BA: (Level 3) Applicants will normally have a Diploma in HE in Ancient History and Archaeology (120 credits in Ancient history and Archaeology at Level 2).

All applicants must satisfy the University's English Language requirements as stipulated in the General Regulations for Taught Programmes in force for the academic year of entry to the programme.

All applicants must satisfy the University's English Language requirements as stipulated in the General Regulations for Taught Programmes in force for the academic year of entry to the programme.

6. Accreditation of prior learning:

Accreditation of prior learning (APL) may be recognised in accordance with the General Regulations for Taught Programmes in force for the academic year of entry to the programme. Module exemptions on the basis of APL will normally be granted on an 'ungraded' basis, meaning that students would be awarded a qualification on the basis of the average marks from modules completed at the University of Leicester.

Diploma in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology

Direct entry to level 2 would be permitted where applicants would normally have a Certificate in HE in a relevant subject (120 credits at Level 1) or equivalent APL, or a minimum of two years' relevant professional experience.

BA in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology

Direct entry to level 3 would be permitted where applicants would normally have a Diploma in HE in a relevant subject (120 credits at level 2). Admission in these circumstances is at the discretion of the designated individual(s) who are authorized to make admissions decisions on behalf of the Director of Distance Learning or the Programme Director.

7. Programme aims:

The Certificate in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology aims to:

- provide a rigorous and coherent curriculum, drawing on the School's research and teaching strengths and expertise in delivering distance learning;
- provide a stimulating and challenging learning experience for a wide range of students from a variety of social, geographic and cultural backgrounds;
- To develop students' skills in textual analysis and the interpretation of archaeological information;
- enable students to develop and demonstrate a range of skills necessary for the study of Ancient History and Classical Archaeology;
- enable students to develop and demonstrate a range of transferable skills necessary for further study, career and life enhancement, and effective independent learning;
- enable students to develop personally in ways which will enrich their lives and facilitate their wider contributions to society.

The Diploma in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology aims to:

- provide a rigorous and coherent curriculum, drawing on the School's research and teaching strengths and expertise in delivering distance learning;
- consolidate students' existing archaeological knowledge and inculcate a critical approach to the discipline;
- develop students' knowledge and understanding of the wide chronological and geographical range of the discipline;
- To provide students with an introduction to two ancient languages and to offer them opportunity and encouragement to pursue this learning independently;
- To develop students' skills in textual analysis and the interpretation of archaeological information;
- enable students to develop personally in ways which will enrich their lives and facilitate their wider contributions to society.

The BA in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology aims to:

- provide a rigorous, coherent and attractive curriculum that draws on the research expertise and teaching strengths of the School of Archaeology and Ancient History,
- provide a stimulating and challenging learning experience for all students;
- develop students' knowledge and understanding of the full chronological and geographical range of their discipline;
- develop students' abilities to apply archaeological theories, techniques, and concepts to analyse and explain specific periods and themes in Ancient History and Classical Archaeology;
- To provide students with an introduction to two ancient languages and to offer them opportunity and encouragement to pursue this learning independently;
- To develop students' skills in textual analysis and the interpretation of archaeological information;
- enable students to develop and demonstrate a range of skills necessary for the study of Ancient History and Classical Archaeology;
- enable students to develop and demonstrate a range of transferable skills necessary for successful career development and a lifetime of effective independent learning.

9. Programme Outcomes:

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
(a) Discipline specific knowledge and competencies
(i) Mastery of an appropriate body of knowledge
Demonstrate mastery of an appropriate body of knowledge in ancient history and classical archaeology	DL course materials; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback; academic support from tutors; electronic discussion groups; peer-group support and interaction	Module assignments including essays, critiques, written reports, writing tasks, problem-based exercises, portfolios of language work, contributions to discussions, self-assessed exercises, dissertation
(ii) Understanding and application of key concepts and techniques

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Demonstrate understanding of the variety and complexities of textual and archaeological evidence, analytical techniques and interpretation Demonstrate a variety of approaches to understanding, constructing and interpreting the past	DL course materials; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback; academic support from tutors; electronic discussion groups; peer-group support and interaction DL course materials; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback; academic support from tutors; electronic discussion groups; peer-group support and interaction	Module assignments including essays, critiques, written reports, writing tasks, problem-based exercises, portfolios of language work, contributions to discussions, self-assessed exercises, dissertation
(iii) Critical analysis of key issues
Compare and analyse archaeological and textual evidence for the understanding of the classical past. Reflect critically on the different scholarly traditions associated with archaeology and ancient historiography; on their different status in the contemporary world; and their relationship to cognate disciplines and methods	DL course materials especially Classical Archaeology; Introduction to Roman/Greek History; Latin and Greek Language for Ancient History; The Age of Augustus; Households; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback DL course materials especially Classical Archaeology; Introduction to Roman/Greek History; Latin and Greek Language for Ancient History; The Age of Augustus; Households; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback	Module assignments including essays, critiques, writing tasks, problem-based exercises, contributions to discussions and self-assessed exercises, dissertation
(iv) Clear and concise presentation of material
Present archaeological materials and historical argument in a variety of written and graphical formats	DL course materials; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback	Module assignments including essays, critiques and writing tasks, and self-assessed exercises, language portfolio, dissertation
(v) Critical appraisal of evidence with appropriate insight
Develop and sustain arguments, formulating appropriate questions, and identifying and evaluating appropriate techniques and approaches	DL course materials especially Classical Archaeology; Introduction to Roman/Greek History; Latin and Greek Language for Ancient History; The Age of Augustus; Greco-Roman Slavery; Households; directed reading; independent research;	Module assignments including essays, critiques, writing tasks, problem-based exercises, contributions to discussions and self-assessed exercises, dissertation

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Read, analyse and critically evaluate a range of source materials	resource-based learning; assignment feedback DL course materials especially Classical Archaeology; Introduction to Roman/Greek History; Latin and Greek Language for Ancient History; The Age of Augustus; Greco-Roman Slavery; Households; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback	Module assignments including essays, critiques, language portfolio, problem-based exercises, contributions to discussions and self-assessed exercises; dissertation
(vi) Other discipline specific competencies
Demonstrate awareness of the range and justify the use of appropriate methods to answer archaeological questions Demonstrate elementary competence in Greek and Latin language as applied to the study of ancient history.	DL course materials; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback. DL course materials especially Latin and Greek Language for Ancient History; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback	Module assignments including essays, critiques, fieldwork portfolio, problem-based exercises; dissertation Module assignments including language assignment; self-assessed exercises and discussions, dissertation
(b) Transferable skills
(i) Oral communication
Demonstrate clarity, fluency and coherence in oral expression	*Largely inappropriate for DL courses; however activities and discussion associated with the Field School	Contributions to Field School excavations.
(ii) Written communication
Develop and explain arguments and presentation of data in a variety of textual and graphical formats	DL course materials; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback	Module assignments including essays, critiques, fieldwork portfolio, problem-based exercises, self-assessed exercises, dissertation
(iii) Information technology
Apply IT to support research, interpretation, analysis and presentation, including bibliographic research and data production	DL course materials; independent research; resource-based learning; use of BlackBoard for course materials and formative assessments especially in Latin and Greek Language for Ancient History;	Module assignments, problem-based exercises, self-assessed exercises, use of discussion lists and associated resources, dissertation
(iv) Numeracy
Demonstrate analysis of archaeological data using statistical and graphical techniques	DL course materials; independent research; resource-based learning	Module assignments, problem-based exercises, self-assessed exercises, dissertation

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
(v) Team working
Be able to work collaboratively and recognise the necessity of working with others in archaeology	Optional Fieldwork will involve some collaboration; DL course materials	Module assignments, discussion lists, contributions to online discussions.
(vi) Problem solving
Address historical issues and problems at a variety of scales using a range of techniques and sources	DL course materials; independent research; resource-based learning	Module assignments, problem-based exercises, self-assessed exercises, dissertation
(vii) Information handling
Gather and deploy evidence and data from a range of sources to find, retrieve, select and present information in a variety of formats	DL course materials; independent research; resource-based learning	Module assignments, languages portfolio, problem-based exercises, self-assessed exercises, discussion lists and contributions to online discussions, dissertation
(viii) Skills for lifelong learning
Demonstrate self-management of learning	Distance-learning materials and associated assignments and exercises; independent research; assignment feedback	All of the above
Demonstrate intellectual independence through the appropriate selection, analysis, interpretation and evaluation of evidence	DL course materials; directed reading; independent research; resource-based learning; assignment feedback	Module assignments, dissertation
Reflect upon learning and achievements and plan for educational, personal and career development	Distance learning materials, discussion lists, personal development planning programme	Module, dissertation, course and self-evaluation

10. Progression points:

Level 1 students are required to successfully complete 120 credits at level 1 (i.e. with a mark of 40% or higher) within the maximum period of registration.

Level 2 students are required to successfully complete 120 credits at level 2 (i.e. with a mark of 40% or greater).

Level 3 students are required to successfully complete 120 credits at level 3 (i.e. with a mark of 40% or greater).

In cases where a student has failed to meet a requirement to progress he or she will be required to withdraw from the course.

11. Scheme of Assessment

This programme follows the standard scheme of award and classification set out in Senate Regulation 5. In the case of level 1 modules, which are assessed through coursework portfolios, providing a student achieves a pass mark overall for the portfolio they do not need to pass each of the individual portfolio elements.

12. Special features:

12.1 Transfer between mode of study

Students may transfer between mode of study with the prior agreement of the Programme Director or his/her nominee. In such cases, the normal and maximum periods of registration will be calculated accordingly. Given recent changes to Student Number Controls (SNCs) for the whole School, Home/EU full time distance learning students transferring to campus based study will impact on SNCs. Therefore, A-Level or equivalent results plus the fee status of these students wishing to transfer must be taken into account, and it is likely that until further notice, only students not impacting on the School SNCs will be permitted to transfer.

12.2 Associate students and 'for-interest' modules

Associate students may register for single Level 1 modules on a 'for-interest' basis. Associate students will be required to undertake all assessments associated with their chosen modules. Successful completion of the module at 40% or above will entitle an associate student to a Certificate of Achievement. Associate students will not be permitted to study more than two modules (40 credits) on this basis. Students who wish to undertake further study after this will be required to register for a qualification leading to award in accordance with the General Regulations governing the accreditation of prior learning.

It is also possible for students to take Associate modules at Level 2 if they can demonstrate that they have 120 credits in Archaeology and/or Ancient History at Level 1 or a suitable equivalent.

13. Indications of programme quality

The student learning experience is enhanced by a commitment to synergy between research and teaching. The School of Archaeology and Ancient History was ranked unambiguously in the top ten amongst UK archaeology departments in the 2014 Research Assessment Exercise. In the NSS returns for 2015 we scored 95% overall, and a maximum 100% for staff enthusiasm..

Graduates of this degree programme take postgraduate taught courses and pursue research degrees at Leicester and many other universities. Many take master's courses at Leicester or elsewhere; many have entered teaching or archaeological careers; and many enter graduate employment soon after graduation. This programme combines a suite of specially written Distance Learning modules in Ancient History with a selection of pre-existing (or revised and updated) Distance Learning modules in Archaeology at Levels 1, 2 and 3. As such, it expands and augments the highly successful Level 1 (also self-contained Certificate in Archaeology), Level 2 (also self-contained Diploma in Archaeology) and BA in Archaeology by Distance Learning. Student numbers for Archaeology modules at all levels have steadily increased, as have our postgraduate DL courses. Increasingly recruitment is a result of student recommendation to friends or professional contacts. Feedback from existing and past students is extremely positive, as are external examiners' reports for current courses.

14. External Examiners

The details of the External Examiner(s) for this programme and the most recent External Examiners' reports can be found here.

Appendix 1: Outline of Programme Structure

All modules are taken for 20 credits, except the dissertation (40 credits). It is expected that students will take the core, introductory modules in Level 1 in the order below.

Modules at Levels 2 and 3 may be taken in any order. The dissertation AR3554 will be the final two modules for all students, and will be the final piece of assessed work to be submitted.

Modules are taken in the order below with the exception of the Fieldwork option module which can be taken at any point of your level 2 studies following agreement with the Department.

CERTIFICATE (LEVEL 1)

Module Code	Module Title	Core/Option	Credit Rating
Core Modules
AR1551	Aims and Methods in Archaeology	C	20
AR1554	Classical Archaeology	C	20
AH1551	Introduction to Roman History	C	20
AH1552	Introduction to Greek History	C	20
