The normal period of registration is 3 years

The maximum period of registration 5 years

BA Ancient History and Archaeology with a Year Abroad

The normal period of registration is 4 years

The maximum period of registration 6 years

5. Typical entry requirements

ABB at A-level; International Baccalaureate, pass diploma with 28-30 points

For the aims, learning outcomes and application criteria for the GCSA Year Abroad please see <https://le.ac.uk/study/undergraduates/courses/abroad>

6. Accreditation of Prior Learning

Direct entry to level 2 is possible, based on level 1 qualifications in a relevant subject or subjects, or equivalent qualifications or experience, and with the approval of the School of Archaeology & Ancient History.

7. Programme aims

The programme aims to:

- provide a rigorous, coherent and attractive curriculum that draws on the research expertise and teaching strengths of the School of Archaeology and Ancient History
- provide a stimulating and challenging learning experience for all students
- develop students' knowledge and understanding of the full chronological and geographical range of their two complementary disciplines
- develop students' abilities to apply historical and archaeological theories, techniques, and concepts to analyse and explain specific periods and themes in Ancient History and Archaeology
- enable students to demonstrate a variety of approaches to understanding the past as used by historians of the ancient world (principally Greece and Rome, but not excluding other ancient cultures of the Mediterranean and western Asia) and by archaeologists
- enable students to develop and demonstrate a range of skills necessary for the study of Ancient History and Archaeology, including elementary skills in Latin and Ancient Greek
- enable students to develop and demonstrate a range of transferable skills necessary for successful career development and a lifetime of effective independent learning

In addition, the Year Abroad aims to:

- expand and broaden the curriculum through engagement with alternative academic traditions
- further deepen students' understanding of the specific periods and themes in Ancient History and Archaeology through study in a different academic context
- develop and enhance students' independence, confidence and global outlook
- reinforce the importance of internationalisation

9. Programme Outcomes

Unless otherwise stated, programme outcomes apply to all awards specified in 1. Programme title(s).

a) Discipline specific knowledge and competencies

i) Mastery of an appropriate body of knowledge

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Demonstrate understanding of the complexity of reconstructing the past, the problematic and varied nature of historical and archaeological evidence	Lectures, tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, fieldwork and practical classes, source-based language classes; team problem solving exercises	Essays, short-answer and essay-based examinations, a dissertation, seminar presentations, contributions to discussions, computer-based exercises, problem-based exercises

ii) Understanding and application of key concepts and techniques

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Demonstrate understanding of the complexity of reconstructing the past, the problematic and varied nature of historical and archaeological evidence	Lectures, tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, fieldwork and practical classes, source-based language classes; team problem solving exercises	Essays, short-answer and essay-based examinations, seminar presentations, independent research projects, contributions to discussions, problem-based exercises.
Demonstrate a variety of approaches to understanding, constructing and interpreting the past	Tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, team problem solving exercises	Essays, short-answer and essay-based examinations, seminar presentations, independent research projects, contributions to discussions, problem-based exercises.
Demonstrate comprehension of and practice in a variety of archaeological practical techniques	Field school, survey and excavation experience, study tour experience	Participation in level 2 and 3 fieldwork and completion of fieldwork reports.

iii) Critical analysis of key issues

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Compare and analyse the histories of different societies and cultures in the past, especially in the classical world	Lectures, tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, team problem solving exercises	Essays, short-answer and essay-based examinations, seminar presentations, independent research projects, contributions to discussions, problem-based exercises
Analyse historical and archaeological processes through the assessment of continuity and change over extended time spans	Tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, team problem solving exercises	Essays, short-answer and essay-based examinations, seminar presentations, independent research projects, contributions to discussions, problem-based exercises

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Reflect critically on the nature of ancient history and archaeology as disciplines	Tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, team problem solving exercises	Essays, short-answer and essay-based examinations, seminar presentations, independent research projects, contributions to discussions, problem-based exercises

iv) Clear and concise presentation of material

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Present ancient historical and archaeological problems and arguments in a variety of written and oral formats	Lectures, tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, team problem solving exercises	Writing tasks (including examinations), project work, seminar presentations, contributions to discussions

v) Critical appraisal of evidence with appropriate insight

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Develop and sustain historical and archaeological arguments, formulating appropriate questions and utilising evidence	Lectures, tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, team problem solving exercises, Tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, computer-aided learning, computer practical classes, team problem solving exercises	Essays, essay-based examinations, seminar presentations, independent research projects, contributions to discussions, problem-based exercises
Read, analyse, and reflect critically and contextually upon a wide range of source materials including both texts and material culture	Lectures, tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, team problem solving exercises, Tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, computer-aided learning, computer practical classes, team problem solving exercises	Essays, essay-based examinations, seminar presentations, independent research projects, contributions to discussions, problem-based exercises

vi) Other discipline specific competencies

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Design, research and present a sustained and independently conceived piece of historical and/or archaeological writing.	Independent research; individual tuition	Independent research projects; class-based practical handling sessions; dissertation; fieldwork reports.

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Develop understanding of relevant disciplinary guidelines, standards, legislative and professional frameworks.	Hands-on practical classes, vocational fieldwork training, Lectures, Seminars, problem-solving exercises, tutorials	Independent research projects; class-based practical handling sessions; dissertation; fieldwork reports.

b) Transferable skills

i) Oral communication

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Demonstrate clarity, fluency and coherence in oral expression of historical and archaeological issues	Seminars, tutorials, team problem solving exercises	Seminar presentations, project presentations, contributions to discussions
Participate effectively in group discussions	Seminars, tutorials, team problem solving exercises	Seminar presentations, project presentations, contributions to discussions

ii) Written communication

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Develop and sustain historical and archaeological arguments in a variety of literary forms	Seminars, tutorials, team problem solving exercises	Essays, essay-based examinations, seminar presentations, independent research projects (including group projects), contributions to discussions
Demonstrate clarity, fluency and coherence in written expression of ancient historical and archaeological issues	Seminars, tutorials, independent research	Essays, essay-based examinations, seminar presentations, independent research projects (including group projects), contributions to discussions

iii) Information technology

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Use IT effectively to support ancient historical and archaeological studies, including using IT for bibliographic and archive searches, data analysis and written/visual presentation of evidence	Induction programme, computer practical classes, independent research	Coursework; independent research projects; computer-based exercises; problem-based exercises; wikis; effective use of VLE.

iv) Numeracy

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Analyse ancient historical and archaeological data using statistical and graphical techniques	Seminars, lectures, IT practical classes; fieldwork exercises	Independent research projects, computer-based exercises, problem-based exercises; fieldwork reports.

v) Team working

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Be able to work collaboratively to explore historical and archaeological issues and arguments and to recognise the value of working closely with others	Tutorials, seminars, team problem-solving exercises, field school, excavation training.	Seminar presentations, contributions to discussions, contributions to team problem solving exercises, group project and fieldwork reports.

vi) Problem solving

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Address ancient historical and archaeological problems in depth using primary source materials and advanced secondary literature	Tutorials, seminars, team problem-solving projects and exercises; field school and excavation training	Essays, independent research projects, computer-based exercises, problem-based exercises, fieldwork project reports

vii) Information handling

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Gather and deploy evidence and data to find, retrieve, sort and exchange new information	Tutorials, seminars, directed reading, independent research, computer practical classes, team problem solving projects and exercises	Essays, independent research projects, computer-based exercises, problem-based exercises

viii) Skills for lifelong learning

Intended Learning Outcomes	Teaching and Learning Methods	How Demonstrated?
Demonstrate intellectual independence through the setting of research tasks and the solving of ancient historical and archaeological problems	All of the above, particularly independent research	All of the above, particularly the dissertation and the second year group project
Reflect upon own learning and achievements and plan for personal, educational and career development	Tutorials, career development programmes, resource based learning, personal development planning programme	Portfolio, curriculum vitae

10. Progression points

This programme follows the standard Scheme of Progression set out in Senate Regulations – see the version of Senate Regulation 5 governing undergraduate programmes relevant to the year of entry.

In cases where a student has failed to meet a requirement to progress he or she will be required to withdraw from the course

a) Course transfers

The course transfers process is set out here on the University's web page. [log-in required]

11. Criteria for award and classification

This programme follows the standard scheme of undergraduate award and classification set out in Senate Regulations – see the version of Senate Regulation 5 governing undergraduate programmes relevant to the year of entry.

12. Special features

- This programme features a practical element attached to a first year core module, consisting of two museum visits.
- It also offers students the opportunity to take up a work placement in a school through an optional module in the third year.
- Students have the option of a Year Abroad. The School participates in two exchange schemes: the first is based on a network of European universities, the second involves links with Canadian and Australian Universities (Study Abroad Scheme).

12a. Research-inspired Education

Students on this programme will advance through the four quadrants of the University of Leicester Research-inspired Education Framework as follows:

RiE Quadrant	Narrative
Research-briefed Bringing staff research content into the curriculum.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Research briefed: The programme integrates staff research content throughout the curriculum. Core year one modules introduce students to research published by School of Archaeology and Ancient History staff, both through lectures and case studies within seminars. Final year dissertations also involve supervisors integrating their own specialisms and research into student learning. Staff also frequently integrate their research into a wide range of optional Year two and Year three modules. Modules draw on archaeological fieldwork and materials analysis by staff members, work by University of Leicester Archaeological Services and theoretical approaches developed by staff members.
Research-based Framed enquiry for exploring existing knowledge.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Research-based: Students engage in research-based activities in a core year two module through group presentations focusing on shared inquiry into research published on a given topic. Students undertake fieldwork at our summer field school and then analyse that data in the classroom in the following semester. During fieldwork, they actively work with University of Leicester Archaeological Services staff, developing an understanding of the processes of real-world contract archaeology.
Research-oriented Students critique published	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Research oriented: Core year one module requires students to engage with weekly research activities for seminars, including preparatory readings and questions for discussion. Seminars require students to provide critical responses to set research activities. Students critique research outputs

research content and process. Research-apprenticed Experiencing the research process and methods; building new knowledge.	regularly, and are also provided with opportunities to critique their own approach to research through reflective assignments. They are provided with guidance and training to enable them to do this. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Research-apprenticed: The degree is set up to provide students with the opportunity to experience the research process throughout, with appropriate staff support. This is exemplified in the fieldwork modules, which take data gathered by the students themselves through summer fieldwork programmes, which they then work to write up in later fieldwork modules. Additional modules take a similar approach throughout the degree (e.g. through heritage-based research projects and through dissertations). Year three dissertations give students experience of the research and learning process to completion. They are supported through regular contact with a supervisor, as well as discussion-based workshops throughout the students' final year discussing research strategies and methods.

As part of studying at a research-intensive university, students on this programme have the following extra or co-curricular opportunities available to them to gain exposure to research culture:

Students are welcomed at the School's Wednesday Research seminars, which are promoted by email, in the foyer TV screens of the Kathleen Kenyon building and on the DL Forum Blackboard site for Distance Learners. These run weekly during term time: each week a researcher from the University of Leicester or an outside speaker gives a talk about their current research, followed by Q&A. The seminars use a hybrid format to maximise accessibility, taking place in person and on Teams. Talks are also uploaded to our YouTube channel.

Teaching on this programme will be research-informed (it draws consciously on systematic inquiry into the teaching and learning process itself) in the following way:

The School supports all staff involved in teaching to gain an accredited Higher Education teaching qualification, in which they demonstrate their use of teaching theory to support their own practice and reflect on their current teaching and continuing professional development.

The School holds teaching Open Fora through the year. These are two-hour meetings on a particular topic (usually different each time), which all staff are invited to. The Open Fora are used to develop ideas around best practice, which can then be implemented within the curriculum.

13. External Examiner(s) reports

The details of the External Examiner(s) for this programme and the most recent External Examiners' reports for this programme can be found at exampapers@Leicester [log-in required]

Appendix 1: Programme structure (programme regulations)

The University regularly reviews its programmes and modules to ensure that they reflect the current status of the discipline and offer the best learning experience to students. On occasion, it may be necessary to alter particular aspects of a course or module.
