7. Programme aims

The programme aims to

- enable students to explore their interest in, and aptitudes for, a range of themes, approaches and periods in both History and Politics;
- encourage powers of independent thought and critical analysis;
- develop skills in the accessing of information and the understanding and use of a wide range of primary and secondary sources;
- develop the ability to marshal cogent and relevant arguments, and present these with clarity in both oral and written form;
- organise written work effectively, and be able to produce this to professional standards of accuracy, literacy, and bibliographic reference;
- foster self-organisation, individual responsibility and the development of independent learning skills;
- enable a spectrum of students to achieve their full potential;
- develop transferable skills of reasoning, evaluation and communication which will equip graduates for a wide range of career opportunities;
- equip graduates with skills of research and analysis as a foundation for further study at postgraduate level in History, Politics and cognate disciplines.

In addition to the aims of the programme outlined for the 3 year degree in History, the 4 year degree also aims to:

- broaden students' learning experience in an international context;
- provide students with the opportunity to develop their language skills by studying for a year in a European country – this does not apply to those students opting to study in Australia or North America;
- widen students' cultural experience by living and studying abroad;
- develop students' transferable skills in order to enhance their employability.
- Intended learning outcomes for the year will be those of the modules they take at the Higher Education Institution they attend during their year abroad.

In addition, for the 'with Industry' variants

- The 'Year in industry' variant of this programme is offered in accordance with the University's standard specification for year in industry programme variants.
- To provide experience of applications of professional and discipline-specific skills in Industry and to reinforce knowledge through its use in different environments.

For the Year in Industry variant, the additional progression points apply

11. Criteria for award and classification

This programme follows the standard scheme of award and classification set out in Senate Regulation 5.

12. Special features

Students' learning experience is enhanced by the close links between the research and teaching activities of members of staff in the School of History, Politics and International Relations. The School includes one of the largest groups of historians in the UK. History was rated excellent for teaching by TQA and 85% of its output was judged at 4* and 3* standard in Ref 2014 (the highest proportion in the UK). Students' learning experience is enhanced by the School's strong commitment to developing synergy between its research and teaching activities.

For the Year in Industry variant, the additional Special Features apply

12a. Research-inspired Education

Students on this programme will advance through the four quadrants of the University of Leicester Research-inspired Education Framework as follows:

RiE Quadrant	Narrative
Research-briefed Bringing staff research content into the curriculum.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Research briefed: Staff research is integrated into the curriculum across all three years of the programme. In Y1, survey modules are team taught so that students are introduced to the full range of specialisms from across the department. Y2 and Y3 option modules bring staff specialisms into the classroom. The final year dissertation enables students to draw on the expert advice of a supervisor in their field.
Research-based Framed enquiry for exploring existing knowledge.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Research-based. The Y1 core module HS1111/HS1000 Making History involves a framed enquiry into current research in a specific field (Bibliographic Exercise). In HS2500 or rPL2095 students begin to frame their own dissertation research project, preparing the ground for the Y3 dissertation by exploring existing knowledge.

Research-oriented Students critique published research content and process. Research-apprenticed Experiencing the research process and methods; building new knowledge.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Research-oriented. All History modules involve close engagement and assessment of published scholarship. This is a key element of essays, but it is also practiced through a group podcast on a major historical debate (HS1016 Europe), through article critiques, and through seminar discussions of articles or books. Once again, this culminates in the final year dissertation, where students assess, critique and advance beyond current scholarship. • Research-apprenticed. The History programme is designed to prepare students to produce their own historical research in the final year dissertation. We begin in Y1 with an Online Research and Reflection Activity (HS1000/HS1111). On HS2500 or PL2095, students develop a Research Project Proposal in discussion with an academic expert. In Y3 Special Subjects, three-hour classes involve intensive scrutiny of primary sources with related assignments: a Source-based Analysis and a Document Test. Finally, the 10,000-word research dissertation in Y3 marks the culmination of the programme, when students (with guidance from a specialist supervisor) become independent researchers in their own right.

As part of studying at a research-intensive university, students on this programme have the following extra or co-curricular opportunities available to them to gain exposure to research culture:

The School has a rich culture of extra-curricular research seminars and public lectures, organised by the Centre for Urban History, the Centre for Local and Regional History, the Stanley Burton Centre for Holocaust and Genocide Studies, and the Leicester Medieval Research Centre. These events bring distinguished researchers to campus, and undergraduate as well as postgraduate students are welcome to participate.

Teaching on this programme will be research-informed (it draws consciously on systematic inquiry into the teaching and learning process itself) in the following way:

The School holds an annual Teaching Away Day as well as termly teaching meetings for the History team to develop ideas around best practice. These events allow for in-depth discussion of teaching, including the interface with research and how we support students to become research-briefed, research-based, research-oriented and research-apprenticed.

13. Indications of programme quality

In profiles of degree class results, a consistently high proportion of students graduate with 1st class and 2.1 results. External Examiners' reports have consistently commended the quality of the degrees and of student attainment.

14. External Examiner(s) reports

The details of the External Examiner(s) for this programme and the most recent External Examiners' reports for this programme can be found here.

This is an indicative list of option modules and not definitive of what will be available. Option module choice is also subject to availability, timetabling, student number restrictions and, where appropriate, students having taken appropriate pre-requisite modules.

INTERNATIONAL NETWORK OF UNIVERSITY EXCHANGE

Joint degree students may study abroad at one of the following partner institutions for one semester, taking modules equivalent to those the students would have taken at Leicester, ensuring appropriate academic progression. The following are the approved partner institutions: Flinders University, Australia, La Trobe University, Australia and James Madison University, Virginia, USA. Students should contact the School of History, Politics and International Relations for further information.

BA HISTORY AND POLITICS WITH A YEAR ABROAD

The above four-year degree is also available. Students may only enter the four-year variant of the relevant three-year programme by transferring at the end of the first or second-year and on the recommendation of the heads of the divisions concerned. Transfer is conditional on successful completion of first and second-year modules. The programme structure is as for first, second and final year modules for the three-year programme (above). The third year is spent abroad at an approved partner institution. In order to proceed to the fourth year of the course students must pass their year abroad. The year abroad does not otherwise count towards the final classification of the degree.

The programme is assessed as a Four Year Programme with a year out, with the year abroad treated as the 'year out'. The year out does not count towards the final classification, but a student must pass all modules taken during the year abroad to proceed to the final year of the programme. The second and fourth years are used in determining the degree class, according to the standard scheme for three-year programmes.

To take part in the Year Abroad programme students must pass all modules in years 1 and 2, and achieve a credit weighted average of 55% in year 2. They must also have learned the language of the destination country, providing the Office with a language certificate as evidence of satisfactory completion of training through the 'Languages at Leicester scheme' or an appropriate alternative. Failure to meet these criteria will lead to the School recommending transfer to the 3- year degree which the student would otherwise have taken.
