12a. Research-inspired Education

Students on this programme will advance through the four quadrants of the University of Leicester Research-inspired Education Framework as follows:

RiE Quadrant	Narrative
Research-briefed Bringing staff research content into the curriculum.	The programme provides students with a comprehensive and academically rigorous legal education. It provides students with the necessary legal knowledge and transferable skills (legal reasoning, critical thinking, writing, research, and problem solving) to pursue a career as a legal professional or in a variety of other professions. The programme is research-informed in the following ways: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Research-briefed: Students will be exposed to thought-provoking and challenging learning, informed by and drawing upon seminal and contemporary legal research, including research conducted by experts at Leicester Law School.</li> <li>• Research-based: Students will engage with problem-based scenarios that will challenge them to critically apply substantive legal principles to real-world contexts. This approach provides students with the opportunity to explore foundational legal concepts and both primary and secondary sources of legal knowledge while simultaneously evaluating their interaction within contemporary social, economic, and political contexts.</li> <li>• Research-oriented: Students will read and analyse academic journal articles and books, including work authored by experts at Leicester Law School, to develop their knowledge and explore different perspectives that enhance their skills of critical thinking and application of the law. Students are given guidance and training on how to critically appraise published research and develop their legal reasoning.</li> <li>• Research-apprenticed: students will be provided with training and practice on reading primary and secondary sources of law, academic and professional legal writing, group work, presentation skills, and library skills (searching legal databases and referencing).</li> </ul>
Research-based Framed enquiry for exploring existing knowledge.
Research-oriented Students critique published research content and process.
Research-apprenticed Experiencing the research process and methods; building new knowledge.

As part of studying at a research-intensive university, students on this programme have the following extra or co-curricular opportunities available to them to gain exposure to research culture:

Students are exposed to the research culture of the Law School within the curriculum; many academic staff produce internationally-leading and world-leading research that is embedded within the curriculum. Extra-curricularly, students are able to attend inaugural lectures, and final year students are invited to talks and events, by internal and external speakers, relevant to their optional modules.

Teaching on this programme will be research-informed (it draws consciously on systematic inquiry into the teaching and learning process itself) in the following way:

The School supports all staff involved in teaching to gain an accredited Higher Education teaching qualification, in which they demonstrate their use of teaching theory to support their own practice and reflect on their current teaching and continuing professional development.

Teaching on this programme is research-informed in two ways. First, a proportion of academic staff are involved in the production of internationally-leading and world-leading pedagogical research, which is shared with colleagues and, where relevant and appropriate, incorporated into the learning and teaching methods employed throughout the curriculum. Secondly, the Law School hosts away-days and workshops to support the pedagogical development of academic staff and their teaching and learning materials. These events include a legal education research cluster, a 'teaching club' where staff discuss and share best pedagogical practices and recent developments, and talks from external educational leaders.

12b. Work-related learning

The workload of all students on this programme includes the opportunity to engage with at least 100 hours of employer informed, work-related learning activity. Further information regarding work-related learning is available online.

13. Indications of programme quality

- Performance in the National Student Survey
- External examiners' reports
- Degree results and career destination statistics
- Annual Development Review reports
- Periodic Development Review reports
- Peer review of teaching and peer review of marking exercises
- Student-Staff Committee feedback
- Module Feedback

14. External Examiner(s) reports

The details of the External Examiner(s) for this programme and the most recent External Examiners' reports for this programme can be found at exampapers@Leicester [log-in required]

Appendix 1: Programme structure (programme regulations)

The University regularly reviews its programmes and modules to ensure that they reflect the current status of the discipline and offer the best learning experience to students. On occasion, it may be necessary to alter particular aspects of a course or module.

Students are required to pass the Foundations of Legal Knowledge (FLK) modules at “Honours Level” with a minimum mark of 40.00. The FLK modules are Constitutional and Administrative Law, Contract Law, The Law of Tort, Criminal Law, Equity and Trusts, Land Law, and Law of EU-UK Relations. These modules are identified in the tables below with an asterisk.

All students (excluding UK Degree Transfer) who enrol in this programme will undertake the same composition of modules in their first year of study (FHEQ Level 4). After this common first year, students complete the programme through two routes: Route A and B.

Students on Route A will undertake the remaining FLK modules in their second year of study (Level 5). Their final year of study (Level 6) is comprised of 120 credits of optional modules.

Students who choose Route B will undertake the remaining FLK modules in their second year (Level 5) of study in addition to Foundations of Canadian Law (15 credits). Their final year of study (Level 6) is comprised of one core module, Canadian Constitutional Law (15 credits), and 105 credits of optional modules. This route is designed for students who wish to satisfy the regulatory requirements of the Bar Standards Board for the academic component of Bar training in England and Wales (like Route A) and additionally gain exposure to Canadian law.

Students who enrol in this programme are, by default, placed on Route A. To move to Route B, students must apply in their first semester of Year 1. Applications outside of the permitted window will not be accepted in any circumstances.

Route A and B do not apply to UK DT students.
