1. Programme Title(s) and UCAS code(s):

BA Modern Language with Management (R9NF)

2. Awarding body or institution:

University of Leicester

3. a) Mode of study: Full-Time

b) Type of study: Campus based

4. Registration periods:

The normal period of registration is four years, including a full academic session abroad in the third year (three years, in exceptional circumstances, without year abroad). The maximum period of registration is six years.

5. Typical entry requirements:

A Level:

ABB at A2 level including French/Italian/Spanish (depending on programme of study). 128 points from 3 A levels with a minimum of 40 points in French/Italian/Spanish. General Studies accepted as one of the three A2 levels.

For students taking just one language as Beginners, we will accept A*-C grades at GCSE as sufficient evidence of language learning abilities for entry onto the ab initio pathway of those programmes.

International Baccalaureate:

Pass diploma with 30 points, including 6 in Higher Level English and evidence of capacity in a foreign language, usually at A2 grade B or IB grade 6 higher level.

European Baccalaureate:

Pass with 77% overall, including French/Italian/Spanish at grade 7 (or equivalent).

Access to HE Courses:

Pass relevant Access to Higher Education course with 45 level 3 credits including 30 at distinction. Also evidence of A2 level capacity in a foreign language.

Other national and international qualifications welcomed.

Mature students welcomed. Alternative qualifications considered for mature students.

6. Accreditation of Prior Learning:

APL will not be accepted for exemptions from individual modules, however may be considered for direct entry to year 2, on a case by case and subject to the general provisions of the University APL policy.

7. Programme aims:

The programme aims to:

• To equip all students with a high degree of proficiency, both written and spoken, in their chosen European languages, and to provide them with a good understanding of the target countries, and of other countries where those languages may be used, through a programme of progressive tuition based on authentic documentation, texts and film in those languages, and exposure to native speakers.

- To develop a critical understanding of modern management analysis, ideas and practices and their relevance to a variety of institutional and organisational contexts; to develop quantitative, communications and information technology skills, and the ability to apply these in organisational contexts.
- To equip students with subject-specific and transferable skills in preparation for employment in a wide area, particularly in international management (including marketing, human resource management, finance and accountancy) in the private and public sectors and voluntary organizations; also in other fields where high-level modern language skills can be deployed, such as teaching, journalism, publishing, translating, commerce, travel and tourism etc.
- To develop critical awareness of key ideas and concepts.
- To stimulate problem-solving skills by promoting the ability to question, and to discuss and develop coherent arguments.
- To provide stimuli and the skills of research, analysis and presentation necessary for further study at postgraduate level where appropriate.
- To develop the skills required for autonomous learning.

10. Progression points:

This degree programme follows the University's standard progression rules set out in Senate Regulation 5. However, all core language modules must be passed in order to progress to the following year of the programme and must be passed at Honours level (40%+). Final Year core language programmes must be passed at Honours level in order to graduate.

11. Scheme of Assessment

This programme follows the standard scheme of award and classification set out in Senate Regulation 5

12. Special features

Summer school in one of the target countries at the end of Year One.

Combination of linguistic skills and market-orientated knowledge.

Opportunity for total immersion in the target language(s) and culture(s) by the provision of a year abroad spent as appropriate in the country or countries of the language(s) studied into the final year.

Opportunity for the development of study skills in target country universities following a guided programme of learning for the period spent abroad

13. Indications of programme quality

External examiners' reports consistently emphasize the quality of the student learning experience and the high standard of teaching and of assessment. They also favourably comment on the careful design of our modules' intended learning outcomes and their meeting the requirements of the QAA benchmark statements in all its key elements.

Modern Languages at Leicester achieves regularly very high scores in the National Student Survey. In the 2017 NSS Modern Languages achieved an overall satisfaction score of 97.4% (JACS subject area of 'European Languages and Area Studies'). Students' comments praise in particular the vibrant and supportive student-staff community within Modern Languages.

Modern Languages at Leicester was ranked 8th nationally in the Guardian university league table 2017.

95% of the School's research is recognised internationally.

14. External Examiners

External examiners' reports have emphasized the quality of the student learning experience and the high standard of teaching.

The details of the External Examiners for these programmes and the most recent External Examiners' reports for these programmes can be found here.

The details of the Management External Examiner(s) for this programme and the most recent External Examiners' reports can be found here.

Appendix 1: Programme structure (programme regulations)

Students have the choice of studying one or two languages. For one language, students take 90 credits of language and cultural studies modules in that language (French, Italian or Spanish) together with 30 credits of Film Studies modules throughout. For two languages, students take 45 credits of language and cultural studies modules in each of two languages (French, Italian, or Spanish), one of which may be commenced at Beginners level, together with 30 credits of Film Studies modules throughout. Students taking the two-language route through the degree may opt for the one-language route at the end of year 1.

There are two main pathways through the language modules on this programme: One for students with welldeveloped abilities in a language other than English and their native language, and one for students without such abilities. The former group of students take the programme with advanced language skills; the latter group of students take the programme ab initio. For example, an advanced French student will take FR1010 Advanced French Language in year 1, followed by FR2010 Post-Advanced French Language in year 2. A beginners level student will take FR1020 French Beginners and FR1021 French Beginners in year 1 followed by FR2018 French Post-Beginners in year 2. These students will be taught together in final year language groups. The same pattern applies to other languages. Please see the diagrams below.

Notes:

- 1) Optional modules are listed at the end of each year; they may be subject to change from year to year and will not run if under-recruiting.
- 2) Students whose native language is either French, Italian or Spanish, and who wish to study this language as part of their degree programme at Leicester will normally be required to substitute for the core language modules (FR1010 or IT1010 or SP1010) 30 credits of ELTU modules from the following optional modules (as available): EL1005 Academic Writing; EL1007 Academic Speaking; EL2011 Pronunciation; EL2012 Vocabulary; EL2013 Grammar; EL2025 Language and Media. Students with native speaker fluency in both English, and the language they wish to study as part of their degree programme at Leicester, will be required to substitute 30 credits of cultural modules taken from the range on offer in the relevant language or ML modules for the relevant core language modules.

FIRST YEAR

Students are required to attend a compulsory three-week summer school (ML2007: Modern Language Summer School, 0 credits), organised by the School of Modern Languages and in one of the languages they are studying, during the long vacation at the end of the first year. Students studying at beginner's level must go to the summer school in that language.
