7. Programme aims

The programme aims to

- provide a rigorous, coherent and attractive history curriculum that draws on the research expertise and teaching strengths in the subject in the School of History, Politics and International Relations;
- provide a stimulating and challenging learning experience for all students;
- develop students' knowledge and understanding of the wide geographical range of their discipline;
- develop students' abilities to apply historical theories, techniques, and concepts to analyse and explain specific historical periods and themes;
- enable students to demonstrate a variety of approaches to understanding the past as used by different types of historians;
- enable students to develop and demonstrate a range of skills necessary for the study of history; and
- enable students to develop and demonstrate a range of transferable skills necessary for successful career development and a lifetime of effective independent learning.

In addition to the aims of the programme outlined for the 3-year degree in Contemporary History, the 4-year degree also aims:

- to broaden students' learning experience in an international context;
- to provide students with the opportunity to develop their language skills by studying for a year in a European country – this does not apply to those students opting to study in Australia or North America;
- to widen students' cultural experience by living and studying abroad;
- to develop students' transferable skills in order to enhance their employability.
- Intended learning outcomes for the year will be those of the modules they take at the Higher Education Institution they attend during their year abroad.

In addition, for the 'with Industry' variants

- The 'Year in industry' variant of this programme is offered in accordance with the University's standard specification for year in industry programme variants.
- To provide experience of applications of professional and discipline-specific skills in Industry and to reinforce knowledge through its use in different environments.

10. Progression points

In cases where a student has failed to meet a requirement to progress he or she will be required to withdraw from the course.

Year in Industry

For the Year in Industry variant, the additional progression points apply

11. Criteria for award and classification

This programme follows the standard scheme of award and classification set out in Senate Regulation 5.

12. Special features

The School of History, Politics and International Relations includes one of the largest groups of historians in the UK. The Contemporary History degree allows students to specialise in predominantly twentieth-century history and its intersections with the politics and international relations of the modern world. The School is rated excellent for teaching by TQA and 85% of its historians' output was judged at 4* and 3* standard in Ref 2014 (the highest proportion in the UK). Students' learning experience is enhanced by the School's strong commitment to developing synergy between its research and teaching activities

For the Year in Industry variant, the additional Special Features apply

12a. Research-inspired Education

Students on this programme will advance through the four quadrants of the University of Leicester Research-inspired Education Framework as follows:

RiE Quadrant	Narrative
Research-briefed Bringing staff research content into the curriculum.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Research briefed: Staff research is integrated into the curriculum across all three years of the programme. In Y1, survey modules are team taught so that students are introduced to the full range of specialisms from across the department. Y1's HS1100 People and Places module centres on in-depth microhistories closely related to staff research. In the core Y2 module HS2401 Perceiving the Past, tutors introduce different historical approaches by exploring how they apply to their own field of research. Y2 and Y3 option modules bring staff specialisms into the classroom. The final year dissertation enables students to draw on the expert advice of a supervisor in their field.</li> </ul>
Research-based Framed enquiry for exploring existing knowledge.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Research-based. The Y1 core module HS1111/HS1000 Making History involves a framed enquiry into current research in a specific field (Bibliographic Exercise), and Y2's HS2401 Perceiving the Past embeds a research activity on a case of debated heritage (Contested Heritage Panel). In HS2500 /PL2095 students begin to frame their own dissertation research project, preparing the ground for the Y3 dissertation by exploring existing knowledge.</li> </ul>
Research-oriented Students critique published research content and process.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Research-oriented. All History modules involve close engagement and assessment of published scholarship. This is a key element of essays, but it is also practiced through a group podcast on a major historical debate (HS1016 Europe), through article critiques, and through seminar discussions of articles or books. Once again, this culminates in the final year dissertation, where students assess, critique and advance beyond current scholarship.</li> </ul>
Research-apprenticed Experiencing the research process and methods; building new knowledge.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Research-apprenticed. The History programme is designed to prepare students to produce their own historical research in the final year dissertation. We begin in Y1 with an Online Research and Reflection Activity (HS1111/HS1000) and with close study of primary sources in tutorials and on HS1100 People and Places. On HS2500 / PL2095 students develop a Research Project Proposal in discussion with an academic expert. In Y3 Special Subjects, three-hour classes involve intensive scrutiny of primary sources with related assignments: a Source-based Analysis and a Document Test. Finally, the 10,000-word research dissertation in Y3 marks the culmination of the programme, when students (with guidance from a specialist supervisor) become independent researchers in their own right.</li> </ul>

As part of studying at a research-intensive university, students on this programme have the following extra or co-curricular opportunities available to them to gain exposure to research culture:

The School has a rich culture of extra-curricular research seminars and public lectures, organised by the Centre for Urban History, the Centre for Local and Regional History, the Stanley Burton

Centre for Holocaust and Genocide Studies, and the Leicester Medieval Research Centre. These events bring distinguished researchers to campus, and undergraduate as well as postgraduate students are welcome to participate.

Teaching on this programme will be research-informed (it draws consciously on systematic inquiry into the teaching and learning process itself) in the following way:

The School holds an annual Teaching Away Day as well as termly teaching meetings for the History team to develop ideas around best practice. These events allow for in-depth discussion of teaching, including the interface with research and how we support students to become research-briefed, research-based, research-oriented and research-apprenticed.

13. Indications of programme quality

Students following this programme have consistently been awarded good upper second class or first class degrees.

14. External Examiner(s) reports

The details of the External Examiner(s) for this programme and the most recent External Examiners' reports for this programme can be found here.

This is an indicative list of option modules and not definitive of what will be available. Option module choice is also subject to availability, timetabling, student number restrictions and, where appropriate, students having taken appropriate pre-requisite modules.

BA MODERN AND CONTEMPORARY HISTORY WITH A YEAR ABROAD

The above four-year degree is also available. Students may only enter the four-year variant of the three-year programme by transferring at the end of the first or second-year and on the recommendation of the heads of the divisions concerned. Transfer is conditional on successful completion of first and second-year modules. The programme structure is as for first, second and final year modules for the three-year programme (above). The third year is spent abroad at an approved partner institution.

The programme is assessed as a Four Year Programme with a year out, with the year abroad treated as the 'year out'. The year out does not count towards the final classification, but a student must pass all modules taken during the year abroad to proceed to the final year of the programme. The second and fourth years are used in determining the degree class, according to the standard scheme for three-year programmes. Degrees will be classified using the same scheme as for three-year programmes.

To take part in the Year Abroad programme students must pass all modules in years 1 and 2, and achieve a credit weighted average of 55% in year 2. They must also have learned the language of the destination country, providing the Office with a language certificate as evidence of satisfactory completion of training through the 'Languages at Leicester scheme' or an appropriate alternative. Failure to meet these criteria will lead to the School recommending transfer to the 3-year degree which the student would otherwise have taken.
